A LAW FIRM FOR YOUR FAMILY

At Hayes Esquire PLLC we are devoted exclusively to the practice of family law. Our mission is to help people become unmarried without ruining the rest of their lives.

Many people contact us for the first time when they have experienced a recent breach of trust in their marital relationship. For some, the decision to leave their marriage is clear, but the pathway has not yet been illuminated. Others are exploring divorce as an option for the first time in their lives and they need more time and information before they can make a decision.

Dissolving a marital relationship will mean addressing almost every area of a person's life. During the initial meeting, we focus on learning about the things that are most important to our clients. We discuss the impact marriage dissolution will have on a person's children, their property, their immediate and future financial security, and their emotional wellbeing.

We encourage clients with children to forge strong co-parenting relationships with their former-spouse because we understand that while their marriage may be dissolving, it is important for the family to remain intact. As a result, some clients have reported that the conclusion of their time together as a married couple signaled the beginning of a new chapter in their relationship together as Parents.

We understand that much of the worry, stress, and anguish of the divorce process results from a person's natural fear and insecurity of the unknown. For this reason, we spend time educating clients about the law and how it will apply to their lives, how to conduct themselves during litigation, and how to prioritize and resolve conflicts, to keep the legal process manageable.

Once we have a good understanding of each client's life circumstances, we are able to turn our attention to developing and executing an appropriate legal strategy. While our practice is designed to bring a case to resolution at the soonest possible time with the least amount of strife and expense, the journey each case will take is dependent on how the spouses conduct themselves.

Legal fees and expenses can range from affordable ($2,500.00) to very expensive ($25,000 or more) depending on the level of conflict and complexity in each case. Some clients will be able to dissolve their marriage in just a few months without ever stepping foot into a courtroom and others may spend a year or more negotiating, mediating, and preparing for and attending trial so that a Judge can render a final decree.

In all cases, it is our goal to help clients contain conflict, resolve issues without a lot of bitterness and resentment, and keep their families in tact so that they can move forward happily with the rest of their lives.

If someone you know is considering divorce, don't let them contact just any lawyer who practices family law. Make sure they contact a law firm for their family - a firm devoted exclusively to the practice of family law - a firm that will help them become unmarried without ruining the rest of their lives.
